Job Description:

Cases assigned to a particular panel of three judges are divided among the judges on the panel, and draft decisions are prepared by law clerks or staff attorneys working with an individual judge. Law clerks may be asked to write an initial draft decision, in consultation with the assigned judge. The draft is then circulated to the other judges on the panel for consideration when the case is set for conference.

At conference, the law clerk who has drafted a proposed decision may be asked to present the case to the panel of judges. The law clerk's presentation generally includes a summary of the relevant facts and an analysis of the relevant law. The law clerk is expected to have thoroughly reviewed the trial court record and to be available to help answer questions about the record. The law clerk who prepared the initial draft may also be asked to assist with post-conference editing and with cite-checking the draft.

During conference, law clerks also take notes on all cases presented, including cases presented by staff attorneys and other law clerks.

Essential Functions:

- Analyze the record and legal issues and undertake legal research.
- Draft proposed written decisions for consideration by judges.
- Participate in conference, answer judges' questions, and attend oral arguments.
- Access and use the Court's case management system.
- Access and use SharePoint and Office 365.
- Serve as bailiff for oral arguments.
- Law clerks may be given other projects by their judge(s). Such projects may include case law or statutory research, assistance in handling requests for special action relief and other legal research and writing.
- An effective law clerk also helps with projects as assigned to help resolve cases efficiently and productively.
- Law clerks have shared administrative responsibilities with the chamber's Judicial Assistant.
- Law clerks may be assigned general supervisory responsibilities for externs working in their chambers.
- Law clerks are bound by the ethical standards established by the Code of Conduct for Judicial Employees.

Minimum Education and Experience Requirements:

- Bachelor's degree (B.A./B.S.)
- Law degree from an accredited college/university and law school.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities:

- Knowledge and understanding of law, court procedures, and court systems.
- Knowledge of legal research tools (Westlaw, Lexis Nexis, etc.).
- Ability to work with professionalism in a busy environment.
- High ethical standards and maintaining confidentiality about pending court cases and business processes.
- Ability to organize and manage multiple projects simultaneously and changes in responsibilities, duties, and procedures through cross training.
- Superior verbal and written communication skills.
- Superior research and analytical skills.
- Show initiative and sound judgement in decision making.
- Close attention to detail and proofreading and commitment to accuracy.
- Excellent interpersonal skills in various situations.
- Skilled in citation formatting.

Preferred Education and Experience:

Legal experience, including work as a lawyer, extern, or intern, is a plus. Other professional experience, particularly involving research and writing is preferred.

Reasoning Ability:

Ability to apply common sense and understanding to carry out instructions furnished in written, oral, and diagram form. Ability to deal with problems involving several variables in standardized situations. Ability to apply knowledge and experience to each case using parallels from other cases and deductive reasoning.

Physical Requirements and Equipment Operations:

- Prolonged periods of sitting or standing at a desk working on a computer.
- Retrieve boxes and case files from low and high storage areas.
- Lift and move up to 30 pounds.

Supervisory Responsibility:

- This position has no other direct supervisory responsibility.

The above statements are intended to describe the general nature and level of work only. They are not intended to be an exhaustive list of all required responsibilities, duties, and skills. Similar duties may be added, or the description amended at any time.

Selection Process

Applicants must be currently authorized to work in the United States on a full-time basis. Only applicants whose backgrounds most closely meet the needs of the position may be invited to interview. Requests for a special accommodation to participate in the interview process should be made when you are contacted to schedule an interview. The Selection Process may include first and/or second round panel interviews. This is a Regular, Full-time, non-exempt position.
